The World Journal of Men’s Health (World J Mens Health, WJMH) follows the recommendations for authorship of the International Committee of Medical Journal Editors (ICMJE; http://www.icmje.org/recommendations/). Please see “Research and Publication Ethics” for detailed information on Authorship and Author’s Responsibilities. WJMH accepts notice of co-first authors when the study was equally contributed by them.

WJMH does not allow authorship correction after publication unless the editorial staff made an obvious mistake. Before publication, authorship can be changed in case when all authors request the authorship correction.
